

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A reflective type liquid crystal display device includes first and second substrates, a liquid crystal layer between the first and second substrates, and at least one uniaxial optical compensation film on the second substrate.